RE: Informing the Voters: Whether You Will Confront Readily-Verifiable Casefile Proof of Corruption by New York Attorneys General, Past and Present, and Discharge Your Mandatory Professional and Ethical Obligations with Respect Thereto, Including by Criminal Prosecutions

The Center for Judicial Accountability, Inc. (CJA) is a national, non-profit, non-partisan citizens' organization, based in New York, working to ensure that the processes of judicial selection and discipline are effective and meaningful. In that connection, we have had direct, first-hand experience with New York's current and past Attorneys General, going back nearly a decade and a half.

Perhaps you are familiar with our public interest ad, "Restraining 'Liars in the Courtroom' and on the Public Payroll" (New York Law Journal, 8/27/97, pp. 3-4), summarizing how New York's Attorneys General engage in a modus operandi of litigation fraud to defend state judges and the Commission on Judicial Conduct, sued for corruption, where they have no legitimate defense – and are rewarded by fraudulent judicial decisions. A copy is enclosed, along with copies of our two predecessor ads, referred-to therein, "Where Do You Go When Judges Break the Law?" (New York Times, 10/26/94, op-ed page; New York Law Journal, 11/1/94, p. 9) and "A Call for Concerted Action" (New York Law Journal, 11/20/96, p. 3).

Eight years ago, Democrat Eliot Spitzer won the November 1998 election for Attorney General over incumbent Republican Dennis Vacco on a pledge that he would clean up government by setting up a public integrity unit.<sup>1</sup> On January 27, 1999, Mr. Spitzer publicly announced his establishment of that unit at a breakfast co-sponsored by the Association of the Bar of the City of New York and the New York Law Journal. I was there – and was first to the microphone in the question and answer session that followed. I asked Mr. Spitzer what he was going to do about the allegations of our “Restraining ‘Liars’” ad that “the Attorney General’s office uses fraud to defend state judges and the Commission sued in litigation”, to which he answered: “Anything that is submitted to us, we will look at it”.<sup>2</sup> With that, I walked up to the dais and publicly handed Mr. Spitzer a letter of that date entitled “Your mandatory professional and ethical obligations”, calling upon him to take steps to vacate the fraudulent judicial decisions in the three important cases featured by the ad wherein “the Attorney General’s office itself corrupted the judicial process by defense strategies based on fraud and other misconduct”. The fraudulence of both the judicial decisions and the Attorney General’s litigation papers is readily-verifiable from the casefiles – a fact highlighted by the ad.

What was Mr. Spitzer’s response to this January 27, 1999 letter? There was none – nor any from his so-called public integrity unit. Instead, Mr. Spitzer proceeded to corrupt the judicial process by litigation fraud, precisely as his predecessors had – and, like them, to be rewarded by a succession of fraudulent judicial decisions. Exemplifying this, two separate lawsuits against the Commission on Judicial Conduct – both commenced in April 1999. The first of these, a public interest lawsuit brought by CJA, arose from the corruption of “merit selection” to the New York Court of Appeals and encompassed, during the course of its 3-1/2-year odyssey to the New York Court of Appeals, the corruption of the judicial appointments process to New York’s lower state courts – as to which Mr. Spitzer was shown to be a complicit participant.

All of the foregoing is readily-verifiable from primary source materials -- a substantial portion of which are posted on CJA’s website, www.judgewatch.org. This includes, in addition to our extensive correspondence with Attorneys General Spitzer, Vacco, and G. Oliver Koppell (accessible via the sidebar panel “Searching for Champions-NYS”), the casefile records of three separate lawsuits against the Commission on Judicial Conduct – two defended by Mr. Spitzer and one by Mr. Vacco (accessible via the sidebar panels “Judicial Discipline-State” and “Test Cases: State (Commission)”).

Also readily-verifiable from CJA’s website (via the sidebar panel “Press Suppression”) is our correspondence with the press, establishing that throughout these nearly 15 years and spanning three election cycles for Attorney General, it has refused to report on the casefile evidence of the Attorneys General’s corrupting of the judicial process by defense fraud – rewarded by fraudulent judicial decisions. This includes The New York Times, which, notwithstanding its 1994 editorial about the Attorney General’s race that “voters need to know how candidates intend to handle the job’s meat-and-potatoes work of defending the state against legal actions”<sup>3</sup> would not then or thereafter report on how the Attorney General was handling that job – to wit, during the 1994, 1998, and 2002 elections for Attorney General or in the context of this year's electoral races. Consequently, CJA is now suing The Times for its election-rigging cover-up, perpetuating systemic governmental corruption and protecting Mr. Spitzer, among others. As may be seen from the litigation papers, posted on CJA's website (via the sidebar panel "Suing The New York Times"), The Times has no legitimate defense and – like the Attorney General – is corrupting the judicial process with litigation fraud. As only a fraudulent judicial decision will save it, you may be sure we will be turning to whichever of you is elected Attorney General to safeguard the judicial process in this landmark public interest challenge to fraudulent reporting and editorializing by our "paper of record", deliberately misleading citizens on critical issues of governance and preventing their exercise of an informed vote.

By this memorandum, CJA offers you copies of all referred-to primary source materials, including, most importantly, copies of the casefiles of the three lawsuits against the Commission on Judicial Conduct<sup>4</sup>. This, to buttress our request herein to personally meet with you to discuss how -- if voters elect you as our next Attorney General -- you will discharge "your mandatory professional and ethical obligations" with respect to the record evidence of systemic governmental corruption involving not only the office of the Attorney General, but three Attorneys General directly.

To facilitate your response, we are circulating this memorandum to our supposed "watchdog" press – along with CJA's story proposal, "The REAL Eliot Spitzer – Not the P.R. Version", which we widely circulated to the press in 2002, to no avail – and which is even more politically-explosive now. This, so that the press can belatedly inform voters of the readily-verifiable documentary evidence of Mr. Spitzer's litigation fraud and the hoax of his public integrity unit – germane to whether he is fit to be our next governor – and, based thereon, to obtain your answers as to whether – if elected to be our next Attorney General -- you will discharge your duties as New York's highest law enforcement officer and "The People's Lawyer" to take appropriate corrective steps, including criminal prosecutions of Mr. Spitzer and his predecessor Attorneys General for corruption – or whether they and the other involved public officers and persons in positions of My final October 24, 2002 motion therein, for leave to appeal to the New York Court of Appeals, was expressly based on the record, "establish[ing], prima facie, that the Commission has been the beneficiary of five fraudulent judicial decisions, without which it would not have survived three separate legal challenges...". This count of five fraudulent judicial decisions explicitly excluded two New York Court of Appeals decisions -- the subject of my immediately preceding October 15, 2002 motion to the Court of Appeals for reargument, vacatur for fraud, lack of jurisdiction, disclosure & other relief. The fraudulence of these two additional decisions, particularized by my October 15, 2002 motion (at ¶¶4, 6, 57-65), included the Court of Appeals' concealment of my entitlement, as a matter of law, to sanctions against the Attorney General's office, to its disqualification, and to disciplinary and criminal referrals of Mr. Spitzer personally based on my showing that the Attorney General's submissions before the Court of Appeals – as likewise before the lower state courts -- were "frauds on the court", of which Mr. Spitzer was directly knowledgeable.

Needless to say, if you are truly committed to cleaning up Albany, addressing government corruption and dysfunction, and championing public integrity and the People's rights – rather than cynically posturing as reformers to sway votes – you will not require the prompting of the press to forcefully speak out about the irrefutable casefile proof of corruption in the Attorney General's office, but will make it the centerpiece of your campaigns.

MAKING NEW YORK STATE THE NATION'S LEADER IN PUBLIC INTEGRITY: ELIOT SPITZER'S PLAN FOR RESTORING TRUST IN GOVERNMENT

Too often the Empire State is perceived as the Special Interest State. Newspapers routinely refer to New York's "twisted democracy,"<sup>1</sup> and Albany's "bribery mill"<sup>2</sup>. Voters have become accustomed to a cycle of campaign finance scandals, ballot access chicanery, incumbent protection schemes and special interest legislation. Nationally, New York State is notorious for its weak public corruption laws, and its lackluster enforcement of laws on the books.

While other states in the nation – including neighboring states – have moved decisively to clean up government, New York remains mired in a system where an open wallet means an open door to public officials, and where the working families of New York are left without a public voice.

Citizens want a greater voice in our democracy, but have nearly given up hope that their elected officials will give it to them. This creates a deepening spiral of voter apathy that further reduces citizen involvement in government, and in turn increases the influence of moneyed special interests.

* Eliot Spitzer is the only Attorney General candidate who is prepared to take on the task of cleaning up government by taking on all of the problems that have led to governmental stagnation and corruption in New York. Eliot Spitzer doesn't just talk about fighting government corruption and special interest power, he has lived it. Spitzer doesn't just hold press conferences and propose warmed over ideas; he has new ideas and he boasts a track record on government ethics.

Spitzer was involved in one of the only major public integrity prosecutions in New York State in the last two decades. As an Assistant Prosecutor in the Manhattan DA's office, he was part of the team that prosecuted several public officials – of both parties – for abuse of the public trust. Spitzer also teamed up with Lawrence Rockefeller, a Republican, as part of a coalition leading a public campaign to force the legislature to make ballot access easier in New York State. This successful campaign helped loosen the archaic ballot access laws of the state.

Eliot Spitzer for Attorney General

PHONE 212-420-1998 • FAX 212-420-0495

Eliot Spitzer will build on his independence, experience and commitment to be an Attorney General who will crack down on public corruption and fight for legislation to restore the voice of the people to state government. Only through attacking each of the ills afflicting the state's political system in comprehensive and wholesale fashion can we restore a responsive government. As Attorney General, he will:

- Create, within the Attorney General's office, a Public Integrity Office to uncover and remedy government abuses throughout the state.
  - Fight to impose greater restrictions on lobbyists and ban all gift giving to elected officials.
  - Fight to replace the current campaign finance scheme with the "Clean Money" option that has been approved by voters in other states.
  - Fight to eliminate incumbent protection schemes.
  - Fight to ensure greater disclosure and voter access to information.

NEW YORK'S FIRST PUBLIC INTEGRITY OFFICER

The first step in restoring public trust in state and local government is to ensure that all public officials throughout the state are doing the public's work, and not furthering their own self-interest. Eliot Spitzer will stringently enforce the state's laws against corruption, fraud and abuse by state and local officials across the state.

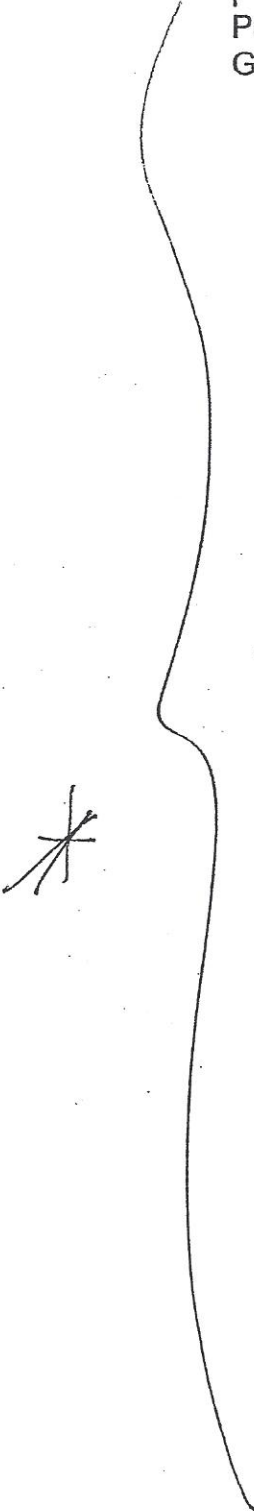

Currently, local district attorneys prosecute public corruption cases. Too often, local DA's are charged with policing their closest associates and political allies; inherent in this system are frequent conflicts of interest and lax prosecution. For example, current New York Election law prohibits corporations from donating more than $5,000 per year to political candidates; there is evidence of widespread abuse of this rule, but no enforcement of it.

Hence, the need for a Public Integrity Officer who will head up a Public Integrity Office within the Office of Attorney General, and will propose and work for passage of legislation to give it broad powers. The Public Integrity Office will vigorously enforce the election and lobbying laws currently on the books, and prosecute those officials found to be in violation of the law, regardless of party affiliation. (Even if the legislature does not pass such a measure, the Public Integrity Officer will use the broad subpoena powers of the Attorney General's office to assist local prosecutors in rooting out corruption).

This new unit will be empowered to:

Vigorously Prosecute Public Corruption. Investigate and prosecute public corruption cases, including charges of bribery, conflict of interest, election law and campaign finance violations, fraud or abuse relating to government procurement and contracting, and other violations of the public trust committed by governmental officials and by those doing business with the government. Using the Attorney General's subpoena powers, the Public Integrity Office will be equipped to conduct independent and exhaustive investigations of corrupt and fraudulent practices by state and local officials.

Train and Assist Local Law Enforcement. Provide training, expertise and assistance to local law enforcement agencies on government corruption and crime. And if a local prosecutor drags his heels on pursuing possible improprieties, the Public Integrity Office will be authorized to step in to investigate and, if warranted, prosecute the responsible public officials.

Create a Public Integrity Watchdog Group. Create and coordinate an independent, nonpartisan Public Integrity Advisory group, to be made up of representatives of various state agencies, watchdog groups and concerned citizens. This advisory group will recommend areas for investigation, coordinate policy issues pertaining to public corruption issues, and advocate for regulations that hold government officials accountable.

Encourage Citizen Action to Clean Up Government. Establish a toll-free number for citizens to report public corruption or misuse of taxpayer dollars.

Report to the People. Issue an annual report to the Governor, the legislature and the people of New York on the state of public integrity in New York and incidents of public corruption.

To help the Office do its job, and to protect those honest and strong-minded citizens and public employees who report public corruption, Eliot Spitzer will also seek additional protections for government whistle blowers, including restrictions on disclosure of the identity of a whistle blower unless it is consented to or ordered by a court.

Breakfast with Eliot Spitzer

Hosted by the New York Law Journal and the Association of the Bar of the City of New York

January 27, 1999

MR. COOPER: Good morning. My name is Mike Cooper. I'm the president of the Association of the Bar, and it's my great pleasure to welcome you to meet and hear the Attorney General, the chief legal officer of the State of New York, Eliot Spitzer.

Eliot was here a little over four months ago with three other candidates in the Democratic primary, and took that occasion to tell you something about his vision for the office of Attorney General and the changes that he would make in its operation. And I guess that message got through, because he bested three other candidates in the primary and then defeated the incumbent.

We are very pleased this morning at the Association to co-host this event with the New York Law Journal, who were our co-hosts back at the candidates debates in early September. And without further ado, I would like to present the president and chief executive officer of the American Lawyer Media, Bill Pollak.

MR. POLLAK: Thank you, Michael. And thank you all for coming to the second of what we hope will be a continuing series of programs in which the Law Journal and the City Bar join to shed light on issues in this state and city's legal and judicial arenas.

The Attorney General is the state's chief legal officer. It's a position that the bar has a unique interest in and concern about. Administrator of a vast legal bureaucracy of about 500 attorneys and more than 1,800 employees, the Attorney General is the lawyer chiefly

So, yes we will examine those cases and we have already moved to expand the range of cases that will be handled by the Civil Rights Bureau. Without looking backward, I think there is nothing to be gained any more by retrospective analysis of what happened in the past four years. I can merely say there will be a much more aggressive civil rights agenda over the next four years.

We have already begun a significant number of cases, which I am not at liberty to talk about. We have already begun looking at some very tough issues and we will move quickly on them.

MS. HOCHBERGER: Thank you. Go ahead.

 MS. SASSOWER: My name is Elena Sassower, I'm the coordinator of the Center for Judicial Accountability. I want to congratulate you and thank you for making as your first priority here the announcement of a public integrity unit. Indeed, that was the first question that I submitted by E-mail and by fax, what had become of that pre-election proposal. So, I am really delighted and overjoyed.

Let me just though skip to my third question that I had proposed today, and that is, that I would hope that a public integrity section would also examine the practices of the Attorney General's office in defending state judges and state agencies sued in litigation.

As you know, we ran a $3,000 public interest ad about the fraudulent defense tactics of the Attorney General's office.

MS. HOCHBERGER: Is there a question?

MS. SASSOWER: Yeah.

MS. HOCHBERGER: Could we get to the question.

MS. SASSOWER: What steps are you going to take in view of those allegations that the Attorney General's office uses fraud to defend states judges and the State Commission on Judicial Conduct sued in litigation.

MR. SPITZER: Anything that is submitted to us we will look at it.

MS. SASSOWER: I have it. I have it right here.

MR. SPITZER: Okay. Why did I suspect that? Thank you.

MS. HOCHBERGER: This one also came in over E-mail.

What are your views on the unauthorized practice of law generally, and specifically with respect to the unauthorized practice of immigration law in New York? How will your office deal with it?

MR. SPITZER: It is an area where the Attorney General's office has enforcement authority, as I was reminded this morning by my very good friend Ed Meyer. We have co-authority to enforce those rules with the Board of Regents, and we will do so aggressively.

I think it does raise interesting issues in areas of the law where there is, frankly, not sufficient representation. And immigration law in particular is one such area. So I know there have been some grave proposals over the years to permit some non-licensed lawyers to give advice up to a certain threshold in those areas, but it's obviously an area where we will be aggressive in our enforcement where it's appropriate.

MS. HOCHBERGER: Yes.

A SPEAKER: Good morning. It sounds like we're ready for an E-ride for those of you that remember Disney.

What role do you see or foresee for the judicial system, meaning the courts, the bar, your office and other offices with respect to the YK issues that may or may not manifest themselves.

MR. SPITZER: Well, the first thing I have done is to try to see where the Attorney General's office is in terms of being prepared for this problem. And I don't yet have a clear answer in terms of where we are in terms of getting our computer systems ready for the -- for that moment. And obviously people are more worried about hospitals and getting paychecks and the banking system crashing. But, I think we will be prepared.

What role generally there is for lawyers, I really haven't thought about that in particular.

STORY PROPOSAL FOR ELECTION COVERAGE

The REAL Attorney General Spitzer -- Not the P.R. Version

The most salient aspects of this story proposal can be independently verified within a few hours. The result would rightfully end Mr. Spitzer's re-election prospects, political future, and legal career. Its repercussions on Governor Pataki would be similarly devastating.

* * *

Repeatedly, the public is told that Eliot Spitzer is a "shoe-in" for re-election as Attorney General<sup>1</sup> and a rising star in the Democratic Party with a future as Governor and possibly President<sup>2</sup>. The reason for such favorable view is simple. The press has not balanced its coverage of lawsuits and other actions initiated by Mr. Spitzer, promoted by his press releases and press conferences, with any coverage of lawsuits defended by Mr. Spitzer. This, despite the fact that defensive litigation is the "lion's share" of what the Attorney General does.

<sup>1</sup> "Court of Claims Judge to Face Spitzer", (New York Law Journal, May 15, 2002, John Caher, Daniel Wise), quoting Maurice Carroll, Director of Quinnipiac College Polling Institute, "Spitzer has turned out to be a very good politician, and he is just not vulnerable"; "[Gov. Pataki] could pick the Father, Son and Holy Ghost and he wouldn't beat Spitzer"; "The Attorney General Goes to War", (New York Times Magazine, June 16, 2002, James Traub), "Spitzer's position is considered so impregnable that the Republicans have put up a virtually unknown judge to oppose him this fall – an indubitable proof of political success"; "The Enforcer" (Fortune Magazine, September 16, 2002 coverstory, Mark Gimein), "he's almost certain to win a second term as attorney general this fall".

<sup>2</sup> "Spitzer Pursuing a Political Path" (Albany Times Union, May 19, 2002, James Odato); "A New York Official Who Harnessed Public Anger" (New York Times, May 22, 2002, James McKinley); "Spitzer Expected to Cruise to 2nd Term" (Gannett, May 27, 2002, Yancey Roy); "Attorney General Rejects Future Role as Legislature" (Associated Press, June 4, 2002, Marc Humbert); "Democrats Wait on Eliot Spitzer, Imminent 'It Boy'" (New York Observer, August 19, 2002, Andrea Bernstein), "many insiders already are beginning to talk – albeit very quietly -- about the chances of a Democrat winning back the Governor's office in 2006. At the top of their wish list is Mr. Spitzer, whose name recognition has shot through the roof in the last year, private pollsters say, and who appears – for now, at least – to have no negatives."

The Attorney General's own website identifies that the office "defends thousands of suits each year in every area of state government" -- involving "nearly two-thirds of the Department's Attorneys in bureaus based in Albany and New York City and in the Department's 12 Regional offices."<sup>3</sup> It is therefore appropriate that the press critically examine at least one lawsuit defended by Mr. Spitzer. How else will the voting public be able to gauge his on-the-job performance in this vital area?

Our non-partisan, non-profit citizens' organization, Center for Judicial Accountability, Inc. (CJA), proposes a specific lawsuit as ideal for press scrutiny. The lawsuit is against a single high-profile respondent, the New York State Commission on Judicial Conduct, sued for corruption -- and is expressly brought in the public interest. It has spanned Mr. Spitzer's tenure as Attorney General and is now before the New York Court of Appeals. Most importantly, Mr. Spitzer is directly familiar with the lawsuit. Indeed, it was generated and perpetuated by his official misconduct -- and seeks monetary sanctions against, and disciplinary and criminal referral of, Mr. Spitzer personally.

As you know, Mr. Spitzer's 1998 electoral victory as Attorney General was so razor-close that it could not be determined without an unprecedented ballot-counting. Aiding him was Election Law lawyer, Henry T. Berger, the Commission's long-standing Chairman. What followed from this and other even more formidable conflicts of interest was predictable: Attorney General Spitzer would NOT investigate the documentary proof of the Commission's corruption -- proof leading to Mr. Berger. This necessitated the lawsuit, Elena Ruth Sassower, Coordinator of the Center for Judicial Accountability, Inc., acting pro bono publico v. Commission on Judicial Conduct of the State of New York -- which Mr. Spitzer has defended with litigation tactics so fraudulent as would be grounds for disbarment if committed by a private attorney.

The lawsuit file contains a breathtaking paper trail of correspondence with Mr. Spitzer, spanning 3-1/2 years, establishing his direct knowledge of his Law Department's fraudulent conduct in defending the Commission and his personal liability by his wilful refusal to meet his mandatory supervisory duties under DR-1-104 of New York's Code of Professional Responsibility (22 NYCRR §1200.5).

Added to this, the lawsuit presents an astonishing "inside view" of the hoax of Mr. Spitzer's "public integrity unit" -- which, by September 1999, was cited by Gannett as having "already logged more than 100 reports of improper actions by state and local officials across New York" ("Spitzer's Anti-Corruption Unit Gets Off to a Busy Start", 9/8/99).

Exposing the hoax of Mr. Spitzer's "public integrity unit" properly begins with examining its handling of the first two "reports" it received. These were from CJA and involved the very issues subsequently embodied in the lawsuit. Indeed, I publicly handed these two "reports" to Mr. Spitzer on January 27, 1999 immediately upon his public announcement of the establishment of his "public integrity unit". This is reflected by the transcript of my public exchange with Mr. Spitzer at that time, transcribed by the New York Law Journal

The first "report", whose truth was and is readily-verifiable from the litigation files of Mr. Spitzer's Law Department, required Mr. Spitzer to "clean his own house" before tackling corruption elsewhere in the state. At issue were the fact-specific allegations of CJA's $3,000 public interest ad, "Restraining 'Liars in the Courtroom' and on the Public Payroll" (New York Law Journal, 8/27/97, pp. 3-4), as to a modus operandi of fraudulent defense tactics used by predecessor Attorneys General to defeat meritorious lawsuits, including a 1995 lawsuit against the Commission, sued for corruption. This in addition to fraudulent judicial decisions, protecting judges and the Commission.

The second "report" was of no less transcendent importance to the People of this State. It, too, was substantiated by documents. These were provided to Mr. Spitzer, including documents as to the involvement and complicity of Governor Pataki. At issue was not only the Commission's corruption, but the corruption of "merit selection" to the Court of Appeals. Reflecting this was my published Letter to the Editor, "An Appeal to Fairness: Revisit the Court of Appeals" (New York Post, 12/28/98) – whose closing paragraph read: "This is why we will be calling upon our new state attorney general as the 'People's lawyer,' to launch an official investigation."

As detailed by the lawsuit file, not a peep was thereafter heard from Mr. Spitzer or his "public integrity unit" about these two "reports". Endless attempts to obtain information regarding the status of any investigations were all unanswered. Indeed, Mr. Spitzer's only response was to replicate the fraudulent defense tactics of his predecessor Attorneys General, complained of in the first "report". This, to defeat the lawsuit which I, acting as a private attorney general, brought to vindicate the public's rights in the face of Mr. Spitzer's inaction born of his conflicts of interest.

What has become of the "more than 100 reports of improper actions by state and local officials across New York" cited by Gannett as having been "already logged" by September 1999. And what has become of the hundreds more "reports" presumably "logged" in the three years since? A "search" of Mr. Spitzer's Attorney General website [www.oag.state.ny.us/] produces only seven entries for the "public integrity unit", with virtually no substantive information about its operations and accomplishments.

That the media-savvy Mr. Spitzer should offer such few and insignificant entries is startling, in and of itself. Even more so, when juxtaposed with Mr. Spitzer's specific promises from his 1998 election campaign that his "Public Integrity Office" would be "empowered to":

- (1) "Vigorously Prosecute Public Corruption...Using the Attorney General's subpoena powers...to conduct independent and exhaustive investigations of corrupt and fraudulent practices by state and local officials";
- (2) "Train and Assist Local Law Enforcement...And if a local prosecutor drags his heels on pursuing possible improprieties...to step in to investigate and, if warranted, prosecute the responsible public officials";
- (3) "Create a Public Integrity Watchdog Group...made up of representatives of various state agencies, watchdog groups and concerned citizens...[to] recommend areas for investigation, coordinate policy issues pertaining public corruption issues, and advocate for regulations that hold government officials accountable";
- (4) "Encourage Citizen Action to Clean Up Government...[by] a toll-free number for citizens to report public corruption or misuse of taxpayer dollars";
- (5) "Report to the People...[by] an annual report to the Governor, the legislature and the people of New York on the state of public integrity in New York and incidents of public corruption".

The foregoing excerpt, from Mr. Spitzer's 1998 campaign policy paper, "Making New York State the Nation's Leader in Public Integrity: Eliot Spitzer's Plan for Restoring Trust in Government", is the standard against which to measure the figment of Mr. Spitzer's "public integrity unit". Likewise, it is the standard for measuring Mr. Spitzer's 2002 re-election website [www.spitzer2002.com], which says nothing about the "public integrity unit" or of public integrity and government corruption, let alone as campaign issues.

I would be pleased to fax you any of the above-indicated documents or other items, such as the article about the lawsuit, "Appeal for Justice" (Metroland, April 25-May 1, 2002). Needless to say, I am eager to answer your questions and to provide you with a copy of the lawsuit file from which this important story of Mr. Spitzer's official misconduct and the hoax of his "public integrity unit" is readily and swifly verifiable.

An Appeal to Fairness: Revisit the Court of Appeals

•Your editorial "Reclaiming the Court of Appeals" (Dec. 18) asserts that Albert Rosenblatt will be judged by how well he upholds the democratic process "from those who would seek to short-circuit" it.

On that score, it is not too early to judge him. He permitted the state Senate to make a mockery of the democratic process and the public's rights when it confirmed him last Thursday.

The Senate Judiciary Committee's hearing on Justice Rosenblatt's confirmation to our state's highest court was by invitation only.

The Committee denied invitations to citizens wishing to testify in opposition and prevented them from even attending the hearing by withholding information of its date, which was never publicly announced.

Even reporters at the Capitol did not know when the confirmation hearing would be held until last Thursday, the very day of the hearing.

The result was worthy of the former Soviet Union: a rubberstamp confirmation "hearing," with no opposition testimony — followed by unanimous Senate approval.

In the 20 years since elections to the Court of Appeals were scrapped in favor of what was purported to be "merit selection," we do not believe the Senate Judiciary Committee ever — until last Thursday — conducted a confirmation hearing to the Court of Appeals without notice to the public and opportunity for it to be heard in opposition.

That it did so in confirming Justice Rosenblatt reflects its conscious knowledge — and that of Justice Rosenblatt — that his confirmation would not survive publicly presented opposition testimony. It certainly would not have survived the testimony of our non-partisan citizens' organization.

This is why we will be calling upon our new state attorney general as the "People's lawyer," to launch an official investigation. Elena Ruth Sassower
