

Liege, January 3rd, 1953

Dearest Georges,

All my best wishes for a new year for you and your young wife. Many years have passed since your departure and yet you are still present in my memory. We spent several difficult hours together and the danger brought us closer. My children and even my grandchildren always remember George. Yesterday Christine told me the tale again. Andre is currently in Switzerland with his wife and their two children. He still takes holidays in the winter so that he can ski. My daughter her husband and Guy and Christine are well, they're very tall. My dear George, I hope to see you come back into your old Europe one day and to visit me according to the promise you made me a long time ago. Please send my best regards to your wife and keep a tender memory of me.
