Dear Ms. Sassower:

I am bewildered by your note. To what exactly are you looking for a response from me? If I received a press release from you on November 20, it would not be my normal practice to write a response; I receive enormous numbers of press releases and I respond to them only on extraordinary occasions. If you have a specific question you would like me to address, though, ask away...

Best wishes,

Following up my November 20<sup>h</sup> e-mail to you, attaching CJA's press release " How Does the U.S. Supreme Court Handle Misconduct Complaints against its Staff?", attached is my December 11th memo to you, entitled:

"CONTRIBUTING TO SCHOLARSHIP & TEACHING : Examining the Truth of David Margolick's Criticism of U.S. Supreme Court Reporters and Scholars in His September 23, 2007 New York Times Book Review of The Nine: Inside the Secret World of the Supreme Court "

I look forward to your response.

Thank you.
