RE: Tim Graham's October 20, 2017 article on PolitiFact, with its quote from Andrew Seaman, ethics chair of the Society for Professional Journalists: "The New York Times, Washington Post and others all have scandals in their pasts, but the overwhelming weight of evidence shows their journalism to be reliable and trustworthy" --

Our New York-based non-partisan, nonprofit citizens' organization, Center for Judicial Accountability, Inc. (CJA), has, for more than 25 years, been interacting with The New York Times and has a MOUNTAIN of prima facie, documentary proof, of its knowingly false and dishonest reporting and editorializing, perpetuating a corrupt status quo -- and, in turn, being "protected" by it. This includes a 2006 lawsuit against The Times, suing it for "journalistic fraud", pivotally focused on its "election-rigging" for Senators Hillary Clinton and Charles Schumer -- to which, having NO legitimate defense, it engaged in litigation fraud. This is readily-verifiable from the lawsuit record, posted, in full, on our website, www.judgewatch.org, accessible via the left sidebar panel "Suing The New York Times" -- as, likewise, the fact that The Times survived ONLY because it was the beneficiary of fraudulent judicial decisions, on both trial and appellate levels.

The lawsuit, which ended in 2008, did not result in any pause in The Times' "journalistic fraud" and "election-rigging", whose continuation we have documented again, and, again, and again, including by formal complaints to The Times. Our most recent complaint was four days ago, when we sent The Times a "Notice of 'Fake News'/Journalistic Fraud" pertaining to its October 31, 2017 news article "Andrew Weissmann, Mueller's Legal Pit Bull", which we comprehensively critiqued, stating that it required "prompt and public explanation and corrective steps". The critique's concluding paragraph identified that "to propel public discussion and in-depth investigation", we had posted the critique on our website, accessible, with substantiating proof, via the top panel "Latest News" -- and that we would be giving notice of same "to other media, to political and media commentators, and to such interested parties as President Trump [and] the attorneys for the recently-indicted defendants...". For your convenience, the direct link is here: <http://www.judgewatch.org/web-pages/press-fake-news/andrew-weissmann.htm>.

There is more, much more that we have documented -- and not only as to the demonstrably "fake news" of The New York Times -- but the "fake news" of the other media giant, Gannett, which we sued in 2010, likewise for its "journalistic fraud" and "election-rigging", as to which the lawsuit record, accessible via our website's left sidebar panel "Press Suppression", shows the identical pattern: that it engaged in litigation fraud because it had NO legitimate defense and was rewarded by fraudulent judicial decisions, trial and appellate. And then, there is the "fake news" industry of other media -- including the internet's purported muck-raking operations and journalists -- and the so-called media commentators, scholars and academic institutions.

I am available to assist you, to the max, in furnishing the public with the rock-solid, documentary proof of what The New York Times and other media have been doing: destroying our democracy by "fake news", in flagrant violation of their First Amendment responsibilities -- and whose result has been to disable us from "draining the swamp" of governmental corruption.
