Subject: STOPPING the "Wheels in motion for lawmakers' pay raise" -- your 6/22/15 Daily Gazette column/blog

Dear Ms. Foss,

Following up on your excellent column/blog "Wheels in motion for lawmakers' pay raise" – and the voice mail message I left for you earlier today – the legislative pay raises you describe are NOT a fait accompli. They can be stopped, as likewise the pay raises for executive and judicial branch officers. All it takes is investigative reporting of what's been happening on the pay raise issue – which, to date, the press has not only NOT reported, but actively concealed.

The pay raise issue – and the unlawfulness and unconstitutionality of the gimmick of a pay raise commission whose recommendations take effect, automatically, absent legislative or executive override, has been the subject of massive advocacy by our non-partisan, non-profit citizens' organization, Center for Judicial Accountability, Inc. (CJA), for the past FOUR YEARS. This advocacy has included public testimony – on February 6, 2013 before the Legislature as part of its budget hearings and on September 17, 2013 before the Commission to Investigate Public Corruption – as well as a mountain of complaints to our highest public officers and to such criminal and ethics authorities as US Attorney Preet Bharara and JCOPE – and three separate lawsuits.

The below press-release about the JCOPE/LEC review commission, e-mailed last week to all listed members of New York's Legislative Correspondents' Association (<http://lcapressroom.com/>) – without the slightest report -- is our most recent work-product, directly involving the pay raise/commission issue. Indeed, had JCOPE and LEC been remotely functioning, the Governor, Temporary Senate President, and Assembly Speaker could never have snuck the law creating the Commission on Legislative, Executive, and Judicial Compensation into the budget – and gotten it enacted.

I look forward to speaking with you at your earliest convenience.

Thank you.

Psst! What's Happening with the JCOPE/LEC Review Commission, Appointed Nearly 2 Months Ago?

On May 1st, the Governor, Temporary Senate President, and Assembly Speaker jointly appointed an eight-person commission to review and evaluate JCOPE (Joint Commission on Public Ethics) & the LEC (Legislative Ethics Commission).

What's been happening since? Who did the Governor, Temporary Senate President, and Assembly Speaker jointly designate as its chair and what is its methodology? How to contact it? The review commission does not seem to have a phone number, an e-mail address, an office, any staff. Will it be holding public hearings at which members of the public who have filed ethics complaints with JCOPE and LEC can testify as to their direct, first-hand experience? Or will it be taking testimony in private? Is it going to be doing outreach – or must members of the public reach out to it ?

As the eight commissioners have relationships and associations with those who appointed them and who are the subject of complaints filed with JCOPE and LEC, etc. what is its protocol for dealing with conflict of interest?

These are questions that our non-partisan, nonprofit citizens' organization, Center for Judicial Accountability, Inc. (CJA), asked in a June 18th letter to the JCOPE/LEC review commission – which on June 22nd we sent to JCOPE, LEC, and other public officers, from the Governor on-down and including U.S. Attorney Preet Bharara who, more than a year ago, reportedly subpoenaed all complaints filed with JCOPE.

These two letters and the documentary evidence substantiating them are posted on our website, www.judgewatch.org, accessible via the prominent homepage link “Exposing the Fraud of the Commission to Investigate Public Corruption”. It leads to a link entitled “Going Where the Commission to Investigate Public Corruption Did NOT:...JCOPE”. Here’s the direct link to its menu page: <http://www.judgewatch.org/web-pages/searching-nys/commission-to-investigate-public-corruption/holding-to-account/exposing-JCOPE.htm>

I am available to answer questions and to be interviewed.
