Dear Favour,

You can call me anytime. I am available to assist you, to the fullest.

The starting point for understanding the fraud of judicial discipline – and the 1980 Act and federal judicial discipline – is my 1997 article "Without Merit: The Empty Promise of Judicial Discipline" (The Long Term View/Massachusetts School of Law), accessible, with the primary-source, documentary evidence substantiating it, from CJA's webpage on federal judicial discipline, here. That article and all CJA's subsequent advocacy pertaining to federal judicial discipline, most spectacularly, CJA's Critique of the Breyer Committee Report, whose executive summary is here, check out, 100% -- which is why there has been NO scholarship, NO comment from bar associations, NO comment from "judicial reform"/"good government" organizations, and NO press reporting about it – and why NOTHING has changed over all these decades.... By your honest, truthful, ethical journalism, exposing the scandal of what has been going on, you can make that change, virtually overnight – and secure for yourselves the deserved recognition and funding you need to continue your work.

Thank you!

Hi Elena,

Thanks for your email. I have just started perusing your website and the amount of source material is incredible. This is exactly the kind of resource we've been looking for.

Our email address is theethicsreporter@gmail.com. After I've gone through these articles I'd like to give you a call.

Best,
Favour

---

I am director and co-founder of the non-partisan, non-profit citizens' organization Center for Judicial Accountability, Inc. (CJA), with a nearly 50-year archive of open-and-shut, primary-source, documentary evidence of the corruption of the processes of judicial and attorney discipline, federal and state, involving the highest levels of the judicial, legislative, and executive branches, abetted and covered up by academia, bar associations, so-called "judicial reform" and "good government" organizations, and the press -- posted on our website, www.judgewatch.org. Early this morning, upon doing an internet search with the question "Who are the scholars of federal judicial misconduct?" in an effort to find a scholar to examine the evidence of what is now unfolding at the Second Circuit Court of Appeals and the Administrative Office of U.S. Courts with respect to that issue, The Ethics Reporter came up with the explanation "While not an academic journal, this outlet has published in-depth reports on recent misconduct cases (e.g. Judge Eleanor Ross in Georgia) and the political and legal responses, which have been cited by legal scholars in discussions of accountability mechanisms". This led me to your three June articles and culminating June 23, 2026 fourth article "Three Judges, Three Scandals: The Federal Judiciary's Accountability Crisis Comes Into Full View". Although these articles are excellent, they are but the proverbial "tip of the iceberg", as you will immediately discover from our website's left-side panel entitled "Judicial Discipline-Federal". Please call me -- and send me your e-mail address for further evidence-laden correspondence, whose reporting by you will not only put you "on the map", but achieve the beneficial changes you are endeavoring by your journalism. Thank you.
